

Hepatitis A & B Consent Form & Vaccine Administration Record

Hepatitis A -- Hepatitis A is a liver disease caused by the hepatitis A virus. The virus is spread from person to person by putting something in the mouth that has been contaminated with the stool of a person with hepatitis A. Signs and symptoms of this disease are often nonexistent, but when symptoms do occur they appear abruptly and may last from 2-6 months. A person with this virus may experience fever, tiredness, loss of appetite, nausea, abdominal discomfort, dark urine, and jaundice (yellowing of the skin and eyes). Hepatitis A can lead to hospitalization and, in rare cases, death.

Hepatitis B-- Hepatitis B is a liver disease caused by the hepatitis B virus. The virus is spread by direct contact with the blood or body fluids of an infected person. Signs and symptoms of this disease are often nonexistent. Although, when symptoms are present the person may experience fever, severe tiredness, loss of appetite, nausea or vomiting, abdominal pain, joint pain, and jaundice (yellowing of the skin and eyes). Hepatitis B can cause lifelong infection, liver cirrhosis, liver cancer, liver failure, and death.

The Vaccine -- We recommend that you remain on site for up to 15 minutes to monitor for possible vaccine reactions. An injection of the hepatitis vaccine will NOT give you hepatitis.

Hepatitis A Vaccine Information: The hepatitis A vaccine is made from a dead virus. The vaccine can be administered any time of the year, but if you are getting vaccinated for traveling purposes, the vaccine series should be started at least one month before traveling. A second shot (booster) is needed for full immunization after 6 months of the initial shot. Protection is thought to last about 15 years.

Hepatitis B Vaccine Information: The hepatitis B vaccine is made without any human blood or blood products or any other substances of human origin. We recommend that you remain on site for up to 15 minutes to monitor for possible vaccine reactions. The vaccine can be administered any time of the year and consists of a series of 3 shots. A shot will be given today and again 1-2 months and 4-6 months later. Duration of protective effects is presently unknown, and the need for booster doses is not yet defined.

Hepatitis A&B Vaccine Information: The hepatitis A part of the vaccine is made from a dead virus, and the hepatitis B part is made without any human blood or blood products or any other substances of human origin. The vaccine can be administered any time of the year, but if you are getting vaccinated for traveling purposes, the vaccine series should be started at least one month before traveling. The vaccination consists of three doses, the second dose should be given 1 month after the first, and the third dose should be given 6 months after the initial dose. Protection for both hepatitis A and B is thought to last at least 4 years after the first vaccine dose.

Risks and Possible Side Effects -- An immediate, presumably allergic, reaction rarely occurs after this vaccination. This probably results from an allergy to some vaccine component, or yeast residuals used to make the vaccine (refers to Hepatitis B or Hepatitis A & B vaccine).

Reactions for the Hepatitis A vaccine include: Common side effects of the hepatitis A vaccine include soreness at the injection site, headache, and loss of appetite. These symptoms may occur 3 to 5 days after the vaccination and last for 1 to 2 days.

Reactions for the Hepatitis B vaccine include: Common side effects of the hepatitis B vaccine include soreness at the injection site and mild to moderate fever lasting 1-2 days.

Reactions for the Hepatitis A & B vaccine include: Common side effects of the vaccine include soreness at the injection site, headache, fatigue, nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea.

Special Precautions -- Children, pregnant women, persons with a serious illness, and/or a serious active infection should consult their physician before receiving the hepatitis A vaccine. Persons who are allergic to latex should notify the provider prior to receiving this vaccination. DO NOT receive this vaccine if you have had a serious hypersensitivity reaction to any of the hepatitis vaccines.

Additional precautions for Hepatitis A include: DO NOT receive this vaccine if you have a history of hypersensitivity reaction to alum.

DO NOT receive this vaccine if you have a history of a serious hypersensitivity reaction to the preservative 2-phenoxyethanol.

DO NOT receive this vaccine if you have a history of a serious hypersensitivity reaction to the hepatitis A vaccine.

Additional precautions for Hepatitis B include: DO NOT receive this vaccine if you have a history of hypersensitivity to baker's yeast.
